

Eric Pitts

Eric Pitts, originally from Arlington Heights, Illinois, is a special education teacher and wrestling coach at Vista High School in Southern California.

During the 2006-2007 school year, a number of students on Eric's wrestling team were infected with Community-Associated MRSA infections. Eric took the lead on educating himself, and his team, on what MRSA is and how MRSA infections can spread. Through his research, Eric was able to implement strict sanitation guidelines for his team in order to stop any new infections. Eric is now dedicated to educating others on how to help reduce the spread of MRSA so that they can avoid what he and his team went through.
